Our Board of Directors, which adheres to ethical business standards and principles not unlike those which are included in this Plan, has recognized, and approved this as Mercy Home's statement of commitment to Corporate Compliance and the laws/regulations by which it is governed.

Mercy Home Corporate Compliance Plan

Agency Overview

Mercy Home is funded through the NYS Office for People with Developmental Disabilities (OPWDD). The Agency operates residential facilities in Brooklyn, Queens and Long Island as well as providing Day Habilitation, Respite and Family Support Services. Mercy Home was founded by the Sisters of Mercy in 1862 and has a long history of caring for New Yorkers very much in need of nurturance and special education. Since the 1970's Mercy Home's mission has been to provide care to those living with intellectual disabilities. MERCY HOME CORPORATE COMPLIANCE POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

FALSE CLAIMS ACT AND WHISTLEBLOWER PROVISIONS

FALSE CLAIMS ACT:

The False Claims Act imposes liability on any person who submits a claim to the federal government that he or she knows (or should know) is false. The False Claims Act also imposes liability on an individual who may knowingly submit a false record in order to obtain payment from the government. It is also a crime to falsify records that result in the submission of a false claim to Medicaid or Medicare. Conspiring to defraud the government by getting a false claim paid is also considered a crime under this act. Just as it is a crime to submit a false claim, it is also a crime to falsify records, submit false reports or conceal information to avoid paying an obligation to the government.

PURPOSE:

Mercy Home is committed to prompt, complete and accurate billing of all services provided to individuals. Mercy Home and its employees, contractors and agents shall not make or submit any false or misleading entries on any claim forms. No employee, volunteer, contractor or agent shall engage in any arrangement or participate in such arrangement at the direction of another person, including any supervisor or manager that result in the submission of a false or misleading entry on claims forms or documentation of services that results in the submission of a false claim.

It is Mercy Home's policy to make every effort to detect and prevent fraud, waste and abuse in federal healthcare programs in accordance with the False Claims Act. This policy applies to governing body, all employees, including management, all contractors, volunteers and agents.

Overview of the False Claims Act:

The False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729 et seq., is a federal law designed to prevent and detect fraud, waste and abuse in federal healthcare programs, including Medicaid and Medicare. Under the False Claims Act, anyone who "knowingly" submits false claims to the Government is liable for damages up to three times the amount of the erroneous payment plus mandatory penalties of $5,500 to $11,000 for each false claim submitted.

The law was revised in 1986 to expand the definition of "knowingly" to include a person who:

- Has actual knowledge of falsity of information in the claim.
- Acts in deliberate ignorance of the truth or falsity of the information in the claim; and
- Acts in reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of the information in a claim.

False Claims suits can be brought against individuals and entities. The False Claims Act does not require proof of a specific intent to defraud the Government. Providers can be prosecuted for a wide variety of conduct that leads to the submission of a false claim. Some examples include knowingly making false statements, falsifying records, submitting claims for services never performed or items never furnished, double-billing for items or services, using false records or statements to avoid paying the Government, or otherwise causing a false claim to be submitted.

Overview of the Deficit Reduction Act:

The Deficit Reduction Act is federal legislation that places more emphasis on fraud detection and protection. The law requires that protections are provided to Whistleblowers to prevent retaliation and/or intimidation for reporting fraud.

WHISTLEBLOWER OR "QUI TAM" PROVISIONS

In order to encourage individuals to come forward and report misconduct involving false claims, the False Claims Act contains a "Qui Tam" or Whistleblower provision.

The Government, or an individual citizen acting on behalf of the Government, can bring actions under the False Claims Act. An individual citizen, referred to as a Whistleblower or "Relator," who has actual knowledge of allegedly false claims may file a lawsuit on behalf of the U.S. Government. If the lawsuit is successful, and provided certain legal requirements are met, the Whistleblower may receive an award ranging from 15% - 30% of the amount recovered.

Effective January 26, 2022, the False Claims Act was amended to expand protections for Whistleblowers as indicated below.

An employer shall not take any retaliatory action against any current or former employee because such employee does any of the following;

- Discloses or threatens to disclose to a supervisor of any activity, policy or practice of the employer that the employee reasonable believes is a violation of law, rule or regulation or that the employee believes poses a substantial danger to the public health or safety.

- Provides information or testifies before any public body conducting an investigation or inquiry into any such activity, policy or practice by the employer.
- Objects or refuses to participate into any such activity, policy, or practice.

Retaliatory action is any adverse action taken by an employer or agent to discharge, threaten, penalize or in any other manner discriminate against any current or former employee that could impact current or future employment.

The protection against retaliatory action does not apply to an employee who makes a disclosure to a public body unless the employee has made a good faith effort to notify his/her employer by bringing the activity, policy practice to the attention of a supervisor and has afforded the employer a reasonable opportunity to make correction unless;

- There is an imminent serious danger to public safety or health.
- The employee reasonably believes that reporting to a supervisor will result in destruction or concealment of evidence.
- The welfare of a minor might be in danger.
- The employee reasonably believes that reporting to a supervisor could result in physical harm to the employee or any other person.
- The employee believes that the supervisor is already aware of the activity and has not made any correction.

A current or former employee who has been subject of a retaliatory action may initiate a civil action in court against the employer and may be entitled to reinstatement to one's position, reinstatement of full fringe benefits and seniority rights, compensation for lost wages and all other benefits. The employer will also be liable for reasonable costs of any court proceedings and attorney's fees as well as civil penalties not to exceed ten thousand dollars and/or the payment of punitive damages by the employer.

5. Any form of intimidation or retaliation against an "Affected Individual" who reports a perceived problem or concern in good faith is strictly prohibited.
6. Any "professional" who commits or condones any form of retaliation or intimidation will be subject to disciplinary action up to, and including, termination.

PROCEDURES:

INVESTIGATION OF COMPLIANCE ISSUES

PURPOSE:

Mercy Home implemented a Corporate Compliance Program in an effort to establish a culture within the organization that promotes prevention, detection and resolution of misconduct. This is accomplished, in part, by establishing communication channels for Professionals (employees, volunteers, contractors, business associates and vendors associated with Mercy Home) to report problems and concerns. Professionals are encouraged to report issues via the traditional chain of command, Human Resources, Compliance Hotline, or directly to the Compliance Officer. Therefore, the Compliance Officer is responsible for responding to compliance issues that are raised through the various communication channels. This policy is designed to establish a framework for managing and responding to compliance issues that are raised to the Compliance Officer.

POLICY:

Mercy Home will respond to reports or reasonable indications of suspected non-compliance by commencing a prompt and thorough investigation of the allegations to determine whether a violation has occurred.

The Compliance Officer is responsible for resolving compliance-related issues; however, Affected Individuals should not be discouraged from using any specific communication channel. Affected Individuals who report issues or concerns that are not related to compliance to the Compliance Officer or the Compliance Hotline will be advised of the appropriate department or individual who should be contacted.
